Training School Classes Continue Washington Study

Three of the sixth grade classes including both the low and high sixth grades of the Frederic Burk Training School, are continuing the celebration of the birth of Washington until Thanksgiving. The bicentennial celebration of Washington's Birthday, which began February 22 and ends on Thanksgiving Day, has held the interest of the three sixth grade classes.

Miss Catherine Burkholder, assistant professor of education, states that the class has made books on the phases of the life of Washington. They have collected enough news and pictures to change the exhibit table, they now have, every week.

A series of events will be presented all during the semester as part of the club's programs. Rooms 214 and 215 are being invited by room 216 to attend the meetings.

Lakeside Is Scene Of Dance

Sophomore Strut to Be Saturday; Samson Is Committee Head

With the scene of their dance laid at the Lakeside Country Club and bids selling at $1.25, the sophomores of State are anticipating with great interest the Sophomore Strut, Saturday, April 23. The dance, which is the first one sponsored by a State class to be held in the club house of the Olympic course at Lakeside, will take place April 23. The Lakeside Club is located about one and a half miles from Fishhook Pool on the Skyline Boulevard.

Committee Named

The grounds are beautiful and the lights are so arranged that they will play different hues on the fountain. The committee, composed of Hope Huff and Ashford Samson, co-chairmen, and George Wall, Charlie Parker, Stanley Smith, Adrian De Costa, Mildred Roof, Barbara Larson, and Florence Humphreys, is planning very original programs.

Bids Limited

This is the origin of the official name for all coming soph dances. The sophomores have gotten Walter Krausig and his orchestra, who played at the St. Francis dance. Couples are limited to 125 and the bids are $1.25.

Interesting Lectures to Be Given

Mrs. Cowell Announces Series of Broadcasts on Civic Problems

Mrs. Olive Thompson Cowell, assistant professor of education, announces a series of radio broadcast programs entitled "You and Your Government."

Scheduled for Tuesday

The first fourteen lectures will be a series of impartial, non-partisan broadcasts on civics by students of politics and men prominent in public life. This program is broadcast under the auspices of the National Advisory Council on Radio in Education, with the cooperation of The American Political Science Association, on Tuesday evenings, beginning April 5, 8 to 8:30 Eastern Standard time, over a nation-wide network of the National Broadcasting Company.

Lectures Noted

The outstanding lectures are: May 10, "The Campaign and Economic Planning"; May 17, "Issues of Foreign Policy"; May 20, "Issues of Domestic Policy"; May 31, "Why We Have Political Parties"; June 14, "The Party Convention—Its History, Organization and Work"; and June 21, "Results of the Republican National Convention—A Colloquy."

Printed Material Prepared

To accompany the former series, the committee has prepared printed material, published by the University of Chicago Press, 6750 Ellis Avenue, Chicago, Ill. A Listener's Handbook containing outlines of the lectures, questions and reading lists may be obtained.

Mrs. Cowell recommends these lectures not only to the students and faculty, but to the public.

S.S. Professor Discusses Men As Instructors

In a recent interview with Mr. Leonard Ascher, social science instructor, the possibility of men students increasing in number was discussed. Mr. Ascher had the following to say:

"With the present saturation of labor, more men may turn to teaching, and with the attitude men are taking toward women teachers, we may have more men as high school teachers. The present prejudice against married women in schools is an evidence of this attitude on the part of the people. Men are given the preference, especially if they have higher academic degrees." Then, in Mr. Ascher's opinion, men students will increase in number in this college.

Students To Vote Again On April 27

Many rumors have reached me concerning the re-election held last week for secretary. It seems that some of you have the idea that the election was contested by one of the candidates. May I inform you that NO SUCH THING OCCURRED AND THE IDEA OF A RE-ELECTION ORIGINATED IN THE STUDENT BODY OFFICE as a result of a misprint on the ballots. All such rumors should be checked up and verified in the Student Body office, if you are not sure of them.

On Wednesday, April 27, there will be another Student Body election. At this time there will be a re-election for secretary. The Student Director of Publications and changes in the constitution will also be on the same ballot.

May I take this opportunity to congratulate all those who voted at the Student Body election on April 6. It was without exception the most successful ever held in this college. We make the next one even better. Be sure to vote April 27, from 9 to 4:10, in the Student Body business office.

MARION DONALDSON, President Associated Students.

Concert To Be Presented In Park Sunday

According to Miss Ethel England, music instructor, the San Francisco Conservatory of Music will present a concert of Seventeenth Century choral and orchestral music under the direction of Giulio Silva and Gastone Ussigl on Sunday, April 24, at 2:30 p.m.

This concert will be given at the Palace of Legion of Honor.

Physical Science 20 has a laboratory section on Thursday, and not on Tuesday as stated in last week's issue. Pre-registration will close for filing on Monday, April 25, and not on April 22.

Communications with the department heads have been made in regard to the number of applications for the classes that are closed, and further information will be relayed to the students as soon as possible.

Students are urged to leave stamped, self-addressed envelopes in the registrar's office so that report cards may be sent to the students. Summer session programs are to be filed at the same time that the fall program is to be filed.

All students planning to withdraw from college should file applications in the registrar's office so that a clear record may remain. Students planning to withdraw from college to attend another college and need transcripts should also file a withdrawal card in the office. Credits must be made in writing.

Miss Vance is willing to see December '32 graduates who have not conferred with her in regard to the courses that have been taken.

Plays of Avon Bard Presented

College Theatre to Give Tribute to Shakespeare In Program

The College Theatre is winding up its successful season with a Shakespearean Festival to be held this afternoon and tomorrow in the Frederic Burk auditorium as a commemorative tribute to William Shakespeare. The performance, given without charge to the student body, is especially beneficial to the English students. Classes will be dismissed at two o'clock for the play.

Students Interested

It was a matter of great amazement to Miss Casebolt, as she announced yesterday, that so large a number of State students were sufficiently interested in the plays of Shakespeare to wish to play in them. The interest was so great that two days were selected for the presentation.

Program Scheduled

Today's program is as follows: 1. Lancelot Gobbo's soliloquy on "Conscience and the Fiend," from "The Merchant of Venice," by George McFarland.

2. Julia McKnight and Peg Stromberg will give a scene from "Romeo and Juliet," the former as the nurse and the latter as Juliet.

3. Hamlet's soliloquy, "O what a peasant slave and rogue am I," by Norbert Nichols.

4. Corinne Boylan will portray the part of Constantine in "King John" in which the queen defends herself from the persecution of Pundolph and the other legates who are denouncing her as insane.

5. A scene from "A Midsummer Night's Dream," with Gene Saylor as Lysander, Lynn Johnson as Demetrius, Florence Humphreys as Helena, and Marcella Pozz as Hermia.

Thursday Numbers Planned

Tomorrow's program will be held at noon, and for that reason will be shorter than today's:

1. The street scene from "The Merchant of Venice," in which Fred Wahl will give Shylock's great denunciation beginning "To bait fish withal!"

2. A scene from "The Taming of the Shrew," Alleen Alderson being Kate and Raymond Allee taking the part of Petruchio.

3. Two Elizabethan madrigals, by the Madrigal Singers.

4. The garden scene from "Twelfth Night" with Allan Howard as Malvolio, Fred Wahl as Sir Toby Belch, Raymond Allee as Fabian, Marie Kohne as Maria, and Norbert Nichols as Sir Andrew Aguecheek.

The College Theatre is hoping for success from this newest venture, the first of its kind in the history of the college, and hopes that annual festivals will become a tradition here as at other colleges.

Kappa Delta Tau Initiates Several New Members

In the Activities Room of the Physical Education building, the initiation of the new members took place on the 13th. The room had been exquisitely decorated and was lighted by candles. The ceremony was a very impressive one. Lillian DeHay, Dorothy Fischel and Barbara Mason were the three newly initiated. Dorothy Guinn was supposed to be initiated too but was unable to come. The initiation ceremony was written by Evelyn Richards.

A tea followed the ceremony, after which the members of the club went to the gym and performed several creative dances, spontaneously done by the girls to continue the spirit of the day. Everyone was dressed in formal gowns for the initiation.

State Students To Teach In Summer Camp

Lynn Johnson and Dan Baker, both College Theatre members, are to teach dramatics and singing this summer at the San Francisco Boys' Club camp. Lynn Johnson is to teach dramatics and probably swimming, and would appreciate any skits suitable for boys to be left in his post box in the Co-op. Dan Baker is going to teach singing. Both men are expected to have an interesting summer.

THE ONCE OVER

by James W. Stinchcomb

VISITING people is a bete noire. What I mean is that this whole host, hostess-guest game is usually a draw—both sides lose. Once I read a magazine article wherein the author panned week-end parties right and left. I thought, then, that he was wrong about such affairs—the week-end, away for a change, nice people, stimulating and all that. I think, now, that he may have been right. Oh, not necessarily about the parties with a weak ending, but about the host-guest principle in general.

PRINCIPLE or practice—it makes no difference; the ideal host-guest principle is a beautiful, flimsy thing which nobody has ever seen, unless semi-intoxicated. As for the practice... That's what I'm yapping about. Maybe you can think of some recent affair where you had a very good time (phrase of the phantoms!). But did you enjoy yourself; did you have a good time? Check back carefully. It's a 50-50 chance that you didn't! But all during the last half of the evening you were directing your thought processes (there are such things) so much toward thinking of pleasant things to say to your hostess that pretty soon nothing else was in your mind. Except maybe that that fat fellow's last joke wasn't actually funny. It's also a chance of the same mathematical proportion that four people, at least, asked you, during the evening, "Having a good time?" Soon you began to ponder over the idea, good time. People talked about it; it was the thing, even the theme. You were supposed to have one. Your hostess probably told you that she wanted you to have one. You might have had nothing more than strong coffee and weak sandwiches really; theoretically you must have had a good time.

YES, it was in the air; it was like school spirit—a mental illness. So, you see how I would vote for the good time theory. Although I never have enough money to be anybody's host, I'm not sorry. I won't be able to contribute to this horrible state. Maybe somebody'll read this, and that will settle the guest party. Anyway, here's a typical case. One of the many that have, for me, changed host to ghost and guest to pest.

I AM invited to a party. That sounds fine, I assure myself. I shall have an excellent Saturday night. I find my best tie. I take my best bath. I use that Christmas taleum. I'm all set. Aboard the street car and making for the corner where my host told me to get off (may a thousand dragons assault him). No, I couldn't miss the place. Four streets meet, as streets will, at this corner. In four directions the houses all look about the same—apartments. I remember the pioneers and start out. Time passes; pretty soon I see some stairs with my host coming down them. "Thank God!" I sigh. It'll be great to sit down somewhere. My host is just going after ginger ale. Won't I go along? I have to go. I can tell that he thinks I came early enough for dinner. We're back at the house. I'm hot, tired, bothered. He has excused himself, forgetting to take my overcoat. I flop in a chair while he goes away to borrow another. Gone is the freshness of the tub and taleum. But the party finally starts.

TO make a long story painless, kaleidoscopically: Mr. Whozis does all the talking. Mr. Whozis all the singing. Somebody beats me to the last chocolate éclair. Host becomes quiet, looks tired, insists, "Stay and have a good time." His wife tells us it's o.k.; that he's used to getting up at seven. That's my cue. Whozis has been sitting on my feet. Everybody laughs. My best hat. I laugh, too. Secretly call the aid of all Jupiter's colleagues. They tell me to come again sometime. They won't say when. It's just as well. They call off the dog at the front gate. That reincarnated spirit of diseased camel almost bit me. I am outside now, safe. They wave to me. I turn toward them, stand straight, face in the breeze, remember the Alamo. "I had a good time!"

A LITTLE bird told me: The Student Loan Fund is what it is chiefly because of student contributions before 1906!

Advisory Council to Give Affair Friday In Burk Auditorium

Mary Margaret Davis In Charge of Program For April 22

Members of the Advisory Council will give a tea April 22, under the chairmanship of Mary Margaret Davis, in the Frederic Burk Auditorium in honor of members of the faculty who have so ably assisted the council during the semester, and the newly appointed members of the council.

There will be a musical program, and Peg Carroll will entertain with several dances.

Guests to Attend

Guests of honor are: Dr. and Mrs. Alexander Roberts, Dean and Mrs. Clarence Du Four, Dean Mary Ward, Dr. and Mrs. Elias Arnesen, Dean and Mrs. David Cox, Mrs. L. J. Large, Miss Florence Vance, Miss Clara Crumpton, Miss Vivian Olson, Miss Lea Reid, Miss Alice Rich, Miss Hilda Keel-Smith, Miss M. Kleinecke, Miss Hoags, Miss M. Barbour, Miss Eileen McCall, Mr. and Mrs. William Knuth, Miss Lilla McKenzie, Dr. Ruth Thomson, Marian Donaldson, Katherine Landers, Don Pryor, and Lorraine Walsh. The entire faculty will also be welcomed.

Program Planned

The reception is to be at 4:15, followed by a short program. There will be selections by a guest violinist, whose identity has not yet been disclosed, and dances and selections by a string trio. After the program, tea will be served by the hostesses, who are officers of the council.

Botany Instructor Has Artistic Soul, Displayed in Hall

Mr. Fenton may go into ecstasies over Rupert Brooke, Miss Kleinke read Milton beautifully, and Doctor Ethel have a secret passion for free verse; but it is Miss Lea Reid who has the soul of a true poet.

The locally renowned nature study instructor—however busy she may be watching Josephine's diet or seeing that Mr. X, the chipmunk, does not "overdo" on his little wheel—always finds time to bring a little color into the drab, dreary lives of the Anderson Hall habitués. Each week Miss Reid arrives with an armful of penicillin blooms, and carefully arranges them outside her office door. The influence is subtle but powerful. What student, trudging faithfully along to chemistry lab or botany lecture, does not feel young once more when he sights an array of blossoming color instead of the customary blank wall space?

There have been bouquets of all kinds. But Miss Reid's favorites were the pink and white clusters before the genera of last week. "Wouldn't that make a lovely bouquet for a bride?" she sighed.

Notice

Committees are now being chosen for the summer session student affairs. As a member of the information committee, under the direction of the advisory group, the student will not only learn a great deal about the school but will become acquainted with hundreds of new students. The social committee is composed of hosts and hostesses for various social events within the student body. The work on this committee promises to be entertaining, as well as beneficial, to the taking part.

Members for the registration committee have been chosen and they have found the work most interesting and very instructive. Energetic students wishing to serve on these committees will please communicate with Sue-Ella Barnett, student body chairman.

NOTICE

Block "S" Society meeting Monday night at 7:30 in the Activities Room. Election of new officers for coming term will take place. All members must have paid dues in order to vote.

Students In Botany To Raise Grades

Miss McFadden States Students Are Studying In Science

Many students in the beginning botany laboratory sections are settling down to work now, in order to raise their grades for the finals, according to Miss Effie McFadden, chairman of the science department.

Grades Raised

There are still many failures, as can be seen by Miss McFadden's reports of the second mid-term reports. About one-third of the failures of the first mid-term reports have raised themselves into the "D" class. A few have even raised themselves into the "C" class. There are, however, the same number of failures this time as there were for the first six weeks.

Ferns Studied

Miss McFadden's advanced botany classes are working on ferns. She will be glad to receive any ferns which students can bring her, thereby giving her classes the experience of identifying these ferns.

Dr. Michell Offers Unique Suggestion On Concentration

Dr. Elene Michell, social science instructor, states that she could originate numerous topics for a graduate thesis in education. She proposes as one of her best attempts a "study of comparative effects on student concentration of the various types of music heard in rooms of the central court—violin solos, soprano arpeggios, choruses singing popular songs such as 'Jingle Bells', and orchestras playing Sousa marches."

Affair For Student Loan Fund; Education to Be Discussed

Dr. Lillian Moller Gilbreth, speaking on "New Demands of Education Today", will be guest speaker of the Alumni Association at their luncheon this Saturday.

Benefit Affair

The affair is for the benefit of the Student Loan Fund and, according to those in charge, is being supported by the American Association of University Women who are interested in Dr. Gilbreth, as a fellow member of their association and as a representative woman.

Speaker Is Interesting

Dr. Gilbreth, in charge of Women's Activities of President Hoover's Emergency Committee on Unemployment, is a graduate of the University of California and an honorary member of the Society of Industrial Engineers. In addition to holding a bachelor's and a master's degree in literature from the University of California, Dr. Gilbreth has a Ph.D. from Brown University, a master's in engineering from the University of Michigan, and earned her Doctor of Engineering degree from Rutgers in 1929.

World famous as an efficiency engineer and industrial psychologist, this energetic lady is also a housewife and mother of eleven children, and conducts the business founded by her husband.

The alumni association is particularly fortunate in securing Dr. Gilbreth, who is present in the west at this time to address the state convention of P.T.A. at Fresno next week.

Luncheon at Cliff

The luncheon which is being held at the Cliff Hotel from 12:00 to 1:30 o'clock is attracting wide attention among the women's clubs of the bay region.

Miss Vivian Walsh, Mrs. Roy A. Pratt, and Miss Alice Rich are in charge of the tickets for the luncheon. Students interested in attending may secure tickets from Alice Rich here at college. Reservations must be in by April 20.

Since no record was found of its storage, the student claimed the bicycle by right of discovery, and he is now able to go riding with fair members of Stanford's "500" without patronizing the gasoline trust.

Glee Club Presents Vaudeville

College Organization Gives International Program Wednesday

The annual performance of the College Glee Club, under the direction of Miss Eva A. Levy, was presented in the Frederic Burk Auditorium both Wednesday and Thursday nights of last week.

The program, titled "The Glee Club Vodvil", consisted of a trip around the world over station SFSTC by television. The announcer, Walrus Windshield, sent his wife, Arbella Windshield. This part was portrayed by Viola Giesen.

Spain Portrayed

Exactly at eight-fifteen as the theme song of Amos 'n' Andy failed away, the controls were transferred to Spain. The scene opened with the chorus singing Lacombe's "The Dancers", and Rose Cugionni, Wilma Goss, Anita Uhl, Vera Catalano, Anita Burton and Betty McDonald did an Espana waltz with tambourines. As a solo, Aileen Anderson sang "Cello Lindo". Ed Plutte and Ruth Brazel were featured in a tango to the music of "El Choclo".

Japan Maid Shown

The announcer then transferred the controls to Japan. Selections from "Mikado" were sung by the chorus. Three little maids in the number were Eleanor Quandt, Lavada Hill, and Lorraine Walsh. Gene Saylor and Dan Baker portrayed the parts of "KoKo" and "Katashau" respectively.

French Atmosphere Interesting

Next the audience was taken to France. This scene took place in a Parisian cabaret. Margaret Lemon and Oscar Desello sang a French duet and Rose Cugionni was featured in a solo dance.

Again the controls were transferred. This time Vienna was the scene of the merrymaking. As the number opened, the chorus was heard singing Straus' "Blue Danube" and "Springtime". Amelia Marks with Dan Baker sang "Softly Through the Summer Night". Six couples then swayed to the music of "Love's Old Sweet Song". The number came to a close with the chorus again singing "Springtime".

The opening of the Russian scene was featured by a violin solo by Armand Lepore, and a solo Russian dance was given by Lorraine Walsh. Gene Saylor and Eva Starevich sang as a duet, "Dark Eyes".

Last Scene in America

The last scene took place in America. The number opened with a minuet, and following this, Eleanor Quandt and Doris Sinclair sang as a duet, "My Old Kentucky Home". The men, in chorus, sang "Swanee River". Next, the Virginia Reel was presented. The grand finale was starred around an immense Uncle Sam hat with the entire group singing "The Stars and Stripes Forever".

The Japanese number was presented under the direction of Mrs. Mary McCauley. The French number was made possible with the assistance of the French Club under the direction of Madame Dony. Mr. Frank Ray assisted in making the stage scenery.

The stage arrangements were made by Sue-Ella Barnett, Lillian Hauptli and Ellen Alexander. Miriam Snider, Glee Club treasurer, was in charge of finances.

State Tennis Team Registers 5-4 Win Over Marin Squad

Johnson and Carson Chalk Up Three Victories For State Netmen; Moskowitz and Marks Are Victors After Three Set Battles

Turning in their second victory in two weeks, the San Francisco State tennis team defeated the Marin Junior College netmen five matches to four on the State courts Saturday.

The contest, which was close throughout, went to the State team after a spectacular battle. The Gaters won four of the six singles encounters and one of the three doubles matches.

Jack Johnson and Charlie Carson were double winners. Johnson defeated Ed Barry in straight sets, 6-1, 8-6. Carson conquered Walter McCarthy in three sets, 6-3, 2-6, 6-4. The two Staters then paired up to take the Marin doubles team of Quan and McCarthy into camp by 6-3, 6-4 scores.

Jones Loses Again
Marin's number one man, Lee Jones, overpowered the State ace, Ben Jones, 6-3, 6-4. Gross packed too many guns for the hard-hitting Stater. His unflinching steadiness, coupled with his fine all-around play, kept Jones on the short end of the score throughout. Time after time the Marin star returned Jones' speedy drives that looked like certain points.

It took Ben Quan, Marin's fourth ranking player, three long hard-fought sets to down Jim Dierke, 6-4, 3-6, 6-2. Dierke, fighting an uphill battle, forced the Filipino flash to play his best tennis to win.

Myron Moskowitz Surprises
Harry Marks and Myron Moskowitz continued their winning streaks started last week against the San Francisco Law College by downing Jim Sharpe and Bob Learner of Marin. Marks was forced to three sets before adding Sharpe's scalp to his collection. Moskowitz also had to play three sets before succumbing Learner, 6-4, 7-5, 6-3.

The two Marin doubles victories came late in the encounter when Gross and Barry beat Jones and Dierke, and Quan and McCarthy won over Arlington and Moskowitz.

Next Saturday the State team will wind up its season against the powerful Modesto racquet wielders at Modesto.

Competition Gets Keener As Teams Enter Final Rounds of Play

One of the favored teams in the mixed doubles tennis tournament, the Winifred St. Johns and Bob Thatcher combination, entered the semi-finals round last Friday, defeating Guntor Hansen and William Rutter by a 6-1, 6-4 score. The remaining match in the quarter-finals, Donaldson and Dierke vs. Graham and Nathan, will be played this afternoon on the college courts.

The semi-finals matches are scheduled to be completed by Friday. In the upper bracket the Downing-Marks combination will meet the winners of the match played today. St. Johns and Thatcher will oppose Gudelj and Muskowitz in the lower bracket match.

The results of every match so far have been true to form with but one exception. The only upset scored in the tournament was registered by Margaret Downing and Harry Marks when they defeated Lillian Haupt and Don Jones in a thrilling three-set match.

Due to the condition of the courts last week, the tournament will not be completed as scheduled, but the finals should be played before April 30.

Berger Johnson, State's star javelin thrower, Berger started his spear tossing at Polytechnic High and before he graduated he won the city high school championship in the javelin throw.

Last year Johnson proved himself one of the most consistent members on the track team. In eight meets he piled up a grand total of sixty-three points in the shot put, discus toss, and javelin throw. Johnson's best mark in the javelin throw is 186 feet, but the big, blond spear tosser is consistent at about 170 feet.

Johnson is a physical education major and he intends to become a track coach following his graduation from State. He is a member of the Block "S" Society and spends his spare time working in the San Francisco Stock Exchange.

Stanford Golfer Wins

Gail Stockton of U.S.C. and Harry Eichelberger of Stanford won their way to the finals of the California intercollegiate golf championship last Saturday in two rounds of match play, which saw Charles Seaver, Stanford sophomore, eliminated in the first round.

Lillian de Hay, W.A.A. president, recently represented the Gaters at Los Angeles athletic convention of A.C.A. and last Saturday chalked up swimming victories for State in the San Jose Play Day.

State Women Delegates At L. A. Confab

Lillian (Bud) de Hay, president of W.A.A., and Russell (Babs) Gettemy represented San Francisco State Teachers College at the athletic convention of the western division of Academic American College Women, held at Los Angeles April 8, 9, and 10.

The Staters flew to Los Angeles for the convention, which was held at the University of Southern California and was attended by delegates from all the prominent colleges of the west.

State's delegates enjoyed all phases of their trip, including the aerial passage, and declared the convention a success.

Golden Gater's Sport Gait Reviews Athletic Events

BULLS OR BULLERS...

The Bull Session was absolutely. About 100 Bulls showed up. The program was good. Coach Cox said lots of things, and he also made a speech. A good time was had by all, except the fellow who had to box Lee Alderman. A good time was had by Lee Alderman. Drysdale wrestled with "Moco" Woodworth. A good time was had by Walter Drysdale. In another wrestling match, Wemmer threw Aubel, besides throwing in a couple of ferocious glances.

BUT...

The feature absolutely of the evening was a skitlette by our own original Our-Gang-Comedy. The moral, which seeped the laughter, was even baseball players like girls with names like Hazel Nerts. Edward Burp (as played by Morena) was absolutely superlative. The supporting cast of Emma Dierke, Mabel "Good Gracious" Drysdale, Evangeline Curtis transported a pithy message to the audience.

Gaterettes Score In Play Day

Three Hundred Women Convene at San Jose In Athletic Meet

State's women athletes journeyed to San Jose last Saturday to participate in the semi-annual Play Day together with San Jose State and San Mateo Junior College. One hundred and three Staters made the trip by bus and automobile.

Rain failed to dampen the spirit of the co-eds. After registering and being informed that some of the games could not be played on account of inclement weather, they were about to reconcile themselves to indoor sports when a reluctant sun peeped out and threatened to dry up the landscape. The "racketeers" were informed that tennis could be played as soon as the puddles had been swept off the courts, and followers of the "great American game" agreed to play baseball even if the ground was damp.

Sports indulged in were basketball, baseball, tennis, swimming and volleyball. The Gaterettes showed up well in all fields. Lillian (Bud) de Hay, president of the W.A.A., took first place in three of the swimming contests and our swimmers captured the relay swimming race.

Players in all sports were divided into orange and red teams composed of mixed players from all three colleges. The orange teams triumphed, winning all events except swimming, which was won by the red team.

After the games were over, a pleasure swimming party was held in the new swimming pool of the recently completed men's gymnasium.

Undeclared

Can Stan Smith do better than fifty flat in the 440-yard run? This is the question that confronts nearly every State track fan while reviewing the Gaters' prospects against Menlo J.C. next Saturday. Stan ran his specialty in 50.3 seconds in the first meet of the year. With stiffer competition, much can be expected of this State star.

Concentration Is Necessary In Golf Shot

Golf is not a game demanding speed, strength, unusual stamina or agility. It calls for more relaxed effort than any other game. General improvement cannot be made until the average golf player gives more attention to mental control. Practice does no good unless it is backed up by concentration on the fundamentals.

There are four factors involved in the execution of a good golf swing:

1. Relaxation of the body and arms.
2. Concentration upon the idea of swinging smoothly, without hurrying. This idea must be focused in the mind.
3. Concentration on the start of the swing, watching to see if the left hand is in control and letting the left side turn freely.
4. The final point pertains to the back swing, which should be slow at all times.

The Block "S" Society sponsored a "Bull Session" last Friday. Every male student attending State was invited to attend, and the entire affair was free of charge. However, in spite of all these inducements, but a small proportion of the men at State showed up. The program showed a remarkable array of talent, hitherto completely uncovered. This is too bad, considering the fact that the evening had many surprises and was real entertainment. Lee Alderman showed those that did show up that he really can box. The men at State should get behind these events and really get to know each other. Those who did not attend do not deserve to come under the heading of Bulls. I leave the rest to your imagination.

Golden Gaters Favored Over Jaycee Aggregation; Preliminary Survey of Meet Reveals Close Competition In Field Events

By CHESTER OFFENBACH

With their fourth straight victory in sight, Coach David Cox's State track team will encounter Russell Sweet's Menlo Junior College aggregation Saturday at Kezar Stadium. The first event will start at 2:30.

Men To Be Honored at Block Rally

Twenty-eight Athletes To Receive Official Block Awards Tuesday

Marion Donaldson, president of the Associated Students, will present the official Block "S" award to twenty-eight state athletes at the Block "S" rally Tuesday, April 26, in the college gymnasium. All classes will be excused at eleven o'clock for the occasion.

Music, dance acts, yells, and songs head the long list of entertainment arranged by Bob Peterson, student yell leader. Speeches by Coach Dave Cox and the team managers are also included in the program.

Number Uncertain
The number of track men who will receive the block awards is at present uncertain; however, statistics obtained from past meets show that ten men on the squad are eligible for the monogram, with four other stars on the prospective list.

Tennis—Rogie Johnson

Interest in Quarter Mile

Interest in the track events will be centered around Stan Smith and Ed Donohue, quarter-mile stars. Smith is expected to try to break the 50-second mark in the race, and Donohue hopes to push him all the way. Can Stan do better than 50 flat, is the big question.

Allan Bell, who has been doing odd jobs on the cinder path, is making a name for himself in the distance runs. Placing in every meet thus far, Allan has displayed a fighting heart at all times. With a little better judgment on pace, Bell could easily break the two-minute mark in the 880-yard run.

Henry on Sidelines

Due to the fact that Ed Henry is nursing an injured foot, he will not be able to compete in the sprints. Ed's absence will be felt, and with him out it should be a battle between Jack Bean, Lee Alderman, and Walter Nolan. Bean has probably developed faster than any other man on the Gater team, coping several second places.

This meet should find the Staters the strongest of the season. Do not be surprised if some of the second-place men finish out in front. Many of the Gaters will make a vain effort to score enough points to earn a Block "S".

Cox's Bag of Tricks
Coach Cox pulled a tricky place of work against Modesto when he entered two pole vaulters in the relay race. These men were Gustafson and Cretser who had just finished trying for first place in the jumping event. It is hard to follow the strategy used by Cox. He may have the track manager, Jim Dierke, don spikes in this meet and run in the relay. In any event, watch for a surprise.

Finnish League Clears Athlete

The Finnish Athletic League cleared Pavo Nurmi of charges of professionalism and protested his suspension by the International Amateur Athletic Federation. The Finnish organization informed the federation that the charges were false. It is believed that the effect would be to force the federation to lift the suspension it imposed on the great Finnish distance runner a week ago.

Menlo Tracksters Win Annual Meet

Menlo Junior College track and field athletes won the annual three-cornered meet over San Mateo and Marin Junior Colleges. The winners scored 78 points, San Mateo 54½ and Marin 13½. Gordon Dunn of Menlo captured two first places and broke two conference records in the discus and shot put.

Stone May Set New Mark
Runar Stone, State's most reliable point earner, will face some stiff competition in the high jump. Harold Nobs, Menlo ace, is a consistent 6-foot jumper, and he may force Stone to go higher than the 6-foot 2½-inch mark Runar set against Modesto.

Taking into consideration the results of the last meet, State's javelin throwers seem to be up in the money. Berger Johnson and Dick Curtis both threw the spear around the 185-foot mark and Runar Stone was close behind with a toss of nearly 180 feet. This trio will probably score a clean sweep Saturday.

Political Fraternities Discussed Pro And Con For State

By Kirk L. Truman

A short time ago an editorial was run in the Golden Gater which dealt with fraternities organized for political ends. The inference was that by securing a large number of their members as student body officers, such fraternities could assume a dominating position in college activities. The favorable aspect of such a condition, if it is a true condition, is that it shows an admirable interest in our student government. The fraternity candidates, if they had been elected, would have undoubtedly been capable. It is possible that some of them were elected. The unfavorable aspect of such an organization is that it too truthfully illustrates how history, especially political history, repeats itself—"mechanically, like an idiot."

The discovery of such a group of budding politicians was made accidentally a few days before the recent election. The point which aroused criticism and led to eventual faying of the group, was the fact that secrecy surrounded the existence of the fraternity. To all indications, the members were running for office independently of each other. Actually, there was organization, dependency, and log-rolling. They did not consider the fact that out-and-out log-rolling would be acceptable, if not overdone; instead, they insisted upon the conventional attempt for secrecy.

It is possible that the entire political-fraternity question is overinflated and puffed up to resemble a real issue. It is also possible that the fraternities themselves have intentions strictly honorable. Without condemning completely the organizations which seem to exist solely for the purpose of getting offices for members, it is at the same time possible to faintly air a suspicion.

John Ruskin, Reformer

In 1860, John Ruskin was forty years old and the world's foremost art critic, having wealth, fame and, to all appearances, happiness.

But the author of "The King of the Golden River" saw fit to declare that the first forty years of his life had been practically wasted. So he spent the rest of it in the work of "Humanity-building", which some people call social reform. He gave away his inheritance and most of his earnings. To the workmen of England he wrote letters, advising them how to live usefully and well, and how to liberate themselves from the shackles of the industrialism which was making machines of them. He pleaded with the polite and moneyed class to be less inhumane in their exactions upon their workers. He persuaded many university men to give up athletics and other relatively insignificant pursuits, to do something for the oppressed England of that day. He attacked the English capitalist in a long series of books that for sheer beauty of style and penetration of analysis are quite without equal, in their field, in any language.

He gave a new name to gold. He declared that money that was used to enrich the few at the cost of the lives of the many was "ilth". One of his most well-known pronouncements was that that nation is wealthiest which has the largest number of happy and noble human beings as her citizens.

Ruskin was a professor at Oxford—a professor of art—but probably was not especially proud of the title in itself; for he knew that he had no reason to be. He knew personally many a learned scholar who, for all his cap and gown, was yet hardly more than a parasite, inasmuch as England's ignorant and exploited were practically without champions; and the men in question apparently cared not in the least about it.

He knew, this wise and good man, that the schools of America and England, then as now, were simply going through an elaborate and roundabout process of failing the world.

Education

"Let our schools teach the nobility of labor and the beauty of human service. Education for all the people is America's noblest contribution to civilization. No man can leave a richer legacy to the world than a well-educated family."

"Culture is the power of appreciating life and making life worth appreciating. The world is upheld by the veracity of good men. They make the earth wholesome. Ignorance is the curse of God; knowledge, the wing wherewith we fly to Heaven. The teacher, whether mother, priest, or schoolmaster, is the real maker of history."

"Democratic government can be predicated only on universal education. Learn some useful art that you may be independent of the caprice of fortune. It is not in ignorance but in enlightenment that contentment will be found."

Speech Figures

"Age-old wisdom and mysticism wrapped in the mummified coverings of centuries is discarding its impediments to meet the onslaught of modern civilization"; "Midgert Nippon has infuriated the Yellow Giant"; "The slumbering dragon has turned to resist the rays of the ever-rising sun"—these sentences were among those received by Miss Mary L. Kleinecke, professor of English, after she had required her English 102 class to compose figures of speech about the Japanese-Chinese conflict.

Many unusual comparisons were turned in, as, for instance, "A cold pot of rice has boiled over"; "Japan as a leech is sucking China's blood." There were several references to "the roused dragon" and to "the blood-red sun." Then, too, there were the flowery expressions, "Cherry blossoms are falling and seeking by pressure to eliminate tea fields"; and, "Chinese dragons and Japanese cherry blossoms in conflict make a paradoxical picture of incongruity."

Good Grades

In a recent interview with Mr. Ascher, the subject of good grades was brought up. It has been Mr. Ascher's experience that good grades are an asset to the teacher who is applying for a job.

"Many principals, and other people who are concerned with the hiring of teachers, accept the idea that the person who has consistently received high grades is the person who has intelligence and has been willing to direct that intelligence toward his studies. On the other hand, a person whose grades are only 'average' does not receive much consideration. There are too many more able candidates to choose from."

Mr. Ascher himself does not believe that grades are an "infallible" index of intelligence and ability. However, the idea he advanced is that many important people do stress grades.

Health Needed

A good many students try to earn their living and carry regular programs, according to a faculty member at State. These programs are devised for two hours' home preparation for every unit of work. If a student has a program of 16½ units, he should spend 33 hours a week besides the lecture period on that work. This is impossible if a student is working after school.

From the latest investigations, many physicians feel that the method of living, the mode of eating, and the amount of rest have a great deal to do with the vigor and freedom of an individual. More and more, physicians are coming to question patients as to their mode of living during high school and college life.

Although students, by taking a lighter program, may lengthen their time in college to a certain degree, they are well being in their most productive time of life. Sixteen and one-half units is the program planned for the normal healthy student.

Cost of Girl's Clothing Is Object of Survey; Jokes of Past Years, Still In Use, Bring Laughs

Co-Eds' Costs Plenty

Even if college girls were to wear only half so much as they do, it would still take plenty of money for clothes! This is the conclusion reached by a survey committee at the University of California at Los Angeles, which went on to declare that the cost of dressing a modern co-ed ranges between $96 and $519 a year.

These figures are taken from inventories prepared by a representative group of students in the home economics department, who are beginning a three-year study of dress costs for the purpose of preparing budgets to guide college women. At the beginning of the course the students listed their complete wardrobe, giving the cost and present condition of each garment.

The inventory is divided into the following classifications: Protective garments, outer garments, shoes and stockings, hats, and accessories.

Old But New

"Did you ever see Oliver Twist?"
"Hush, child, you know I never attend college dances."

Prof.: "What is a vacuum?"
Frosh: "I have it in my head but I can't exactly explain it."

Eunice: "They say absence makes the heart grow fonder."

Helen: "Fake. I tried it on Miss Hale."

What about the absent-minded professor who rolled under the dresser and waited for his collar button?

Suitor: "I have come about your daughter's hand."

Father: "James, tell Miss Louise the manicurist is here."

They'll Pass

And she thought only children could get into the infantry.

"Why does Dora always stand with her back to the orchestra?"
"Because she is afraid to face the music."

It is surprising how few murders take place in colleges.

She was just a particeps with a past.

Jerry: "Look, there goes Ruggles, the halfback. He'll soon be our best man."
Betty: "Oh, Jerry, this is so sudden."

A frosh wrote this for an answer in an ex: "The Lord only knows, I don't." The paper came back with this remark in the professor's handwriting: "The Lord gets the credit, you don't."

Teacher: "Your reports must be written over so that even the most ignorant can understand them."

One of them: "Yes, ma'am. What part is it you don't understand?"

Traveler: "When I was in China I saw a woman hanging from a tree."
Home body: "Shanghai?"
Traveler: "Oh, about six feet."

Tea: "What line did you take to Europe last summer?"

Dansant: "Oh, the same one I use around here all the time."

Red: "The Lord made us women beautiful and dumb."

Blue: "Howzat?"
Red: "Beautiful so the men would love us, and dumb so we'd love the men."

Cheating Slapped

Dear T.N.T.—

Can't something be done about the cheating in social science 8B? Bringing in two bluebooks, in one of which all the necessary facts have been written has raised the class average to such heights that hard-working students of average intelligence who are handicapped by honesty can't get more than a "C".

Yours for justice and equality.

Bulletin Board Wanted

Dear T.N.T.—

The depression is on—how about a bulletin board so that we may sell our books? Next term we will need some legal tender to buy the textbooks for our courses. Where is it going to come from? If we turn in our books we will not receive any returns for some time. I suggest that a bulletin board be erected on the east wall downstairs near the library so that the students may put up notices for book sales.

—BROKE.

Fie on Thee, Gossipers

Dear T.N.T.—

I take time off from studying to write this desperate note. I am furious! Wild! In the library I sit trying to study for an examination for this afternoon. On the other side of the desk sit two—not freshmen—women who continually "gab" and "gossip". The only thing for me to do is move because these careless people insist on talking. Why should we have to find a quiet spot in the library when the entire library should be kept in perfect order?

I hope the right persons see this and take heed.

Thank you, T.N.T.,

—"DESPERADO".

Answers Wanted

Dear T.N.T.—

Would it be possible for you to answer each T.N.T. that appears in the paper? The students seemed to enjoy the answers written by you and I, for one, would like to see it continued.

—T.N.T. ENTHUSIAST.

Good Idea—If!!

Dear T.N.T.—

Why not set off a room for the women where they can smoke in peace. As it is now, if the women want to smoke they have to do it on some remote corner. So let's give the gals a break and "locate" them.

Sincerely,

—"SMOKE-MINDED".

Faculty Needed

Dear T.N.T.—

How does it happen that the members of the faculty at State are almost always conspicuous by their absence from any student body activity? I refer in particular to the campaign rally held last week in the Fredrick Burk Auditorium. Couldn't they make even a small effort to cooperate with us? If they would even send one representative to each function sponsored by the student body it would be an improvement over present conditions.

Modern Girl Has Intelligence; Not As Bad As Said

The modern girl is really not so bad. She is pictured by century-old reformers to be a conspicuous piece of humanity, with no sense of any kind. It is said of her that when she turns snob, she carries it to an extreme; if she is friendly, that too, goes to an extreme. She doesn't wear enough clothes; she smokes so much that she smells stale. She goes out on wild parties and doesn't come home until the wee hours of the morning. The longer she stays out, the smarter she thinks she is. If she does something queer, she starts a fad.

The modern "gal" might appear to be happy-go-lucky, with no sense; but underneath her frivolity, she must have some intelligence—look what she accomplishes. She is a stenographer, or teacher, or holds any one of a hundred offices. She often supports parents, or brothers and sisters. The modern girl is really very clever. She can plan to do many things in a short time, while our grandmothers needed the whole day for one accomplishment. True, we are living in an age of faster transportation and of more conveniences; but then, don't we expect too much more, proportionately, from our modern girl? When she goes on a wild party, it isn't so wild as she pretends. She likes to outdo her friends, so she says she came home later than she really did. Of course the modern girl has her faults—plenty of them—but her faults are inconspicuous when we look at those of the old reformers who go around protesting against our youth and condemning it because it finds happiness in living.

Pre-Registration Praised

State students are to be congratulated on the splendid spirit shown this semester regarding promptness in pre-registration. Never in the history of State has there been such a display of promptness shown by the students in re-enrolling for the following term. Nearly one-half of the student body have already made their decision concerning their return next semester, and it is up to you other students to follow suit. Miss Clara Crumpton and her corps of assistants have been kept busy these last few days checking programs and helping various students with their troubles.

State's curriculum will be enlarged considerably this coming semester, and students should take advantage of this good fortune by enrolling in many of the courses which have not heretofore been given, but which are essential for graduation. Many students who are at present enrolled here at State will not be with us next term due to deficiency in their present work—unless they make a decided change for the better within the next two weeks. Remember, it is not too late as yet to be able to bring that "D" to a respectable "C", thus insuring return next year. Regardless of present grades, all students should therefore re-enroll and make sure that a place will be saved for them.

Miss Crumpton wishes to thank those who so ably assisted in the pre-registration work.

Workers Heralded

Little has been said heretofore about students who are working their way through college. They take the same courses as those students who do not work, and in the long run they get better grades. They are compelled to do their homework after working hours; and nine times out of ten, they turn in better papers to their instructors than those who have plenty of time to spend on homework. To be sure, there is only a small number who work. Nevertheless, that minority deserves some credit for the great ambition shown. Now it is up to the students who do not work after school to get a little initiative, and do some work while they are here. Perhaps it would encourage faculty members, and perhaps it would end much worrying on the part of faculty advisors. However, it would bring up grades and tend to make student minds a great deal easier. We are inclined to think that it would do something toward stopping this evident laziness that seems to be coming on when we find our fellow men worrying too much.

Again, we should like to take off our hats to the worthy students who are attempting to make the grade by working here, and outside; and we wish them all the success we know they deserve.

Baker's Oven Babbles On

By Dan C. Baker

A LA JAMES JOYCE: Because of its having been censored, the book, "Lycées", by James Joyce, which records all the thoughts passing through a man's mind in twenty-four hours, is not well known by the majority of book readers. However, Baker's Oven scores again with an imitation "just as good" as most imitations (which is, as you know, not necessarily favorably comparable). We present the thoughts that flitted through our mind while singing a solo in a recent college production: "I wonder who that bald-headed man is in the fourth row. . . . What would happen if I suddenly stopped singing and started shouting about the need for revolution? . . . What are those two girls laughing about, I wonder? . . . Will I remember all the words to this song? . . . What becomes of old opera singers, the mediocre ones, I mean? . . . What was the name of that girl at Old Orchard Beach last summer? . . . Those people sitting in the last row wish that I'd stop holding up the show. . . . I wonder where the Lindbergh baby will be found. . . .

"Whoopie! Here's the end of the song, and now for a good drink of water as soon as I get off the stage. . . . Listen to them applaud. . . . probably just because it's customary to do so. . . . They applaud because I'm through. I'll bet. . . . and after all, it went pretty fairly, I guess, although I can't remember anything about it. . . ."

WOMAN'S LOGIC: The intelligence with which the average woman votes is illustrated by the overheard remark of one of the rare sex. "I voted for Carr because I don't like Cioffi." We will remind you—has it slipped your memory?—that Art and Ralph were running for different offices.

RESPONSIBILITY: That which rests upon that last bobbie pin, so they tell us.

STATISTICS: Statistician Miriam Snider reports, after consuming six aspirin tablets, that she has compiled the following table from the latest publication of the American Bell Telephone Company (phone book, to you) for San Francisco:

Name	No. of Columns
Smith	11
Johnson	10
Brown	7
Davis	6
Sullivan	5
Murphy and Jones	4
Moore	3
Wong	2

The first person listed: Jane Aabel; the last person, E. F. Zytse.

Miss Snider, we salute you for your valuable contribution to society!

PROGNOSTICATIONS: The other day we were talking about the future; this led to making prophecies as to what positions life would find us in 15 years hence; some follow:

Aileen Alderson: Wife of a successful bond salesman; to be seen driving around in a sporty car, dressed in the latest fashion.
Sue Barnett: Supervisor of Education for Alameda County.

Ed Plutte: Acting funny.
Gene Saylor: Singing in the "Met".
Norbert Nichols: Shakespearean actor.
Mildred Scott: Bringing out the Franciscan.

Don Pryor: State Inspector of Educational Institutions.

DIGRESSION: Candy sales by clubs for unknown causes fail to arouse my support, in spite of the often-resorted-to high pressure methods of the loudly-voiced sales staff who attempt to shame one into buying a nickel's worth of indignation.

"All you can eat for 45c". Oh yeah? "More than you can eat", it should be.
